About project

This portfolio will include research of the company, logo ideation and final designs, a business card, corporate identity, as well as a flyer, poster, and a social media campaign for their 'Bottomless Coffee', 'Paw-it-Forward' as well as Adoption Day events .

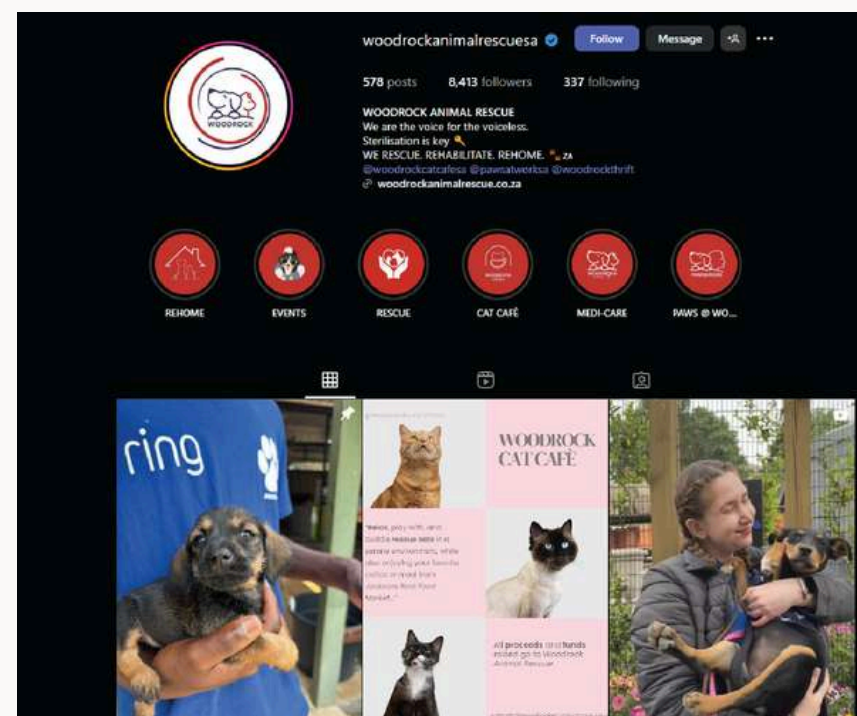

This portfolio will also include full the processes of each deliverable , which include : research, ideation, design development, and the final deliverables

WHATS CURRENTLY NOT WORKING

logo issues:

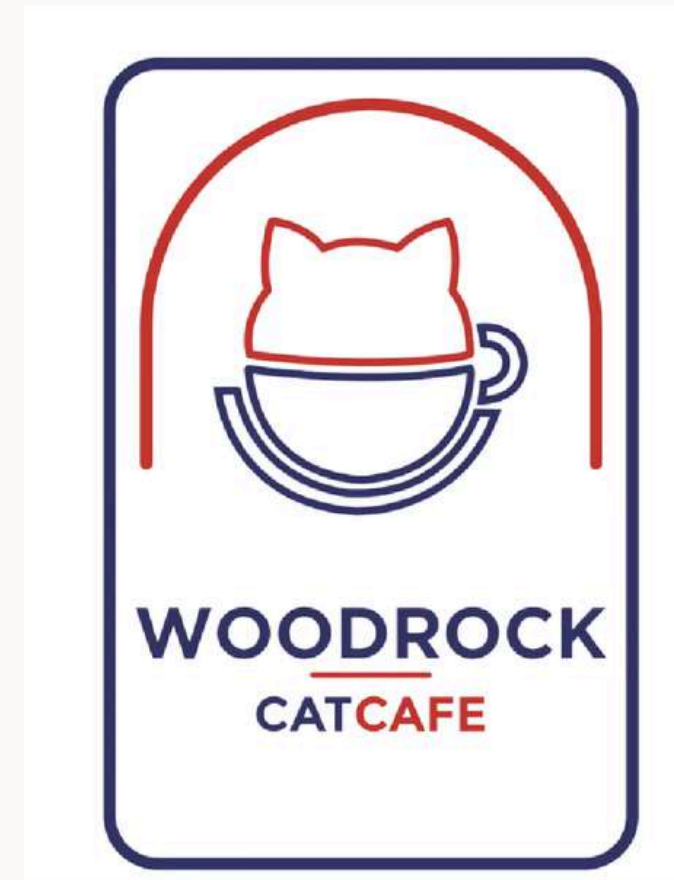

With the goal of coziness in mind this logo doesn't feel cosy and warm. The lines feel clinical, rather than being a logo for a cafe. The colours don't make sense for a cat cafe. It feels corporate again rather than inviting. I personally don't understand the design idea behind the line between the 'woodrock' and 'cat cafe'.

The actual image or icon of the logo is very simplistic, the use of white space, makes the logo seem cold, maybe filling that will bring emphasis to the cat and mug to make it more noticeable and memorable. The arch over the cat mug, also doesn't make sense, with it gone, the cat mug would be more prominent and memorable.

AFTER

1. The colour, to make a more warmer and welcoming
2. To remove the visual clutter, or the red arch above
3. Remove the red line under 'woodrock'
4. Fill in the cat and mug, to make more impression
5. Get rid of the white space to make the logo less cold

Logos

what makes a good logo

1. Simplicity : easy to recognise, easy to scale, easy to remember, like Apples logo (“What Are the Principles of Logo Design?” by Cieden says:)
2. Memorable (DesignRush article: lists memorability as a key characteristic: “What Makes a Good Logo? ... 2. Memorability.”)
3. Relevance (ailor Brands blog: “Relevant – The first quality great logos share is that they’re relevant to the markets their companies target)
4. Versatility : looks good on any medium, at any scale (Wix blog “How To Make a Good Logo”)
5. Timeless : Resisting fleeting trends (Stone Group article)
6. Meaning : The Jungian theory states that symbols tap into the collective unconscious, meaning resonates even when not consciously noticed (Carl Gustav Jung)
